All-Number Dialing Foes Turned Down On Polls Request

Firm Tells PUC San Diego Survey Brought Out Very Few Complaints

SAN FRANCISCO-The Anti-Digit Dialing League today offered to withdraw its case against all-number dialing if Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. will poll "its employees in any city in the United States as to how they like all-number dialing."

The offer was promptly turned down by Francis N. Marshall, attorney representing the telephone company, at the California Public Utilities Commission hearing of the league's case against all-digit dialing.

By LEON DANIEL

CAPE CANAVERAL (UP) You won't find any halls of ivy at the nation's only space engineering college.

But what you will find at Brevard Engineering College, about 20 miles down the coast, is a faculty made up of some of the nation's top scientists and engineers.

The part-time instructors lecture in classrooms filled with dedicated students whose average is 30.

Most of the students and nearly all the faculty members are employed at missile and space technological centers at Cape Canaveral and Patrick Air Force Base.

Sparked by space-race industries which have grown up along the coast near the cape, Brevard is the first college in the United States to offer a master of science degree in space technology.

Vine-covered walls would seem out of place at Brevard, where theories chalked on a blackboard may be used the next day in dealing with a real missile-tracking situation. With the rapid advance in space science, some of the school's teachers must write their own textbooks.

While five-year-old Brevard may be too young to have tratraditions, it is sophisticated enough to offer such lofty courses as celestial mechanics, space medicine and a long list of subjects in higher mathematics.

The college was established in 1958 by Dr. Jerome P. Keuper (prounced Cooper), now its president, and a group of scientists who worked with Keuper for the Radio Corporation of America Service Co.

Keuper said they started college because they saw the need for still higher education for the well-educated people in the space field.

"We learned that many scholnaveral because they could world right here," he said.

not continue their studies here," Keuper said,

Of the school's 700 students, Keuper said about 165 are graduate engineers working for master degrees. The remainder of the students are are taking a few special courses and others who are working Muckey, San Francisco. toward a bachelor of science

Keuper takes great pride in his ability to stretch his education dollars, which he spends ing from private sources.

"We built this building we're in now for $7 a square foot," he said proudly, adding that other school buildings in the area would have cost twice as much.

"What we need now is somebody who wants to have his name on a new library building," Keuper said. "I believe we could build it for $60,000. We already have the books."

Keuper keeps a tight rein on operational costs. He, a single faculty member, a clerk and a janitor are the only full-time employees at the college.

Keuper said the school, so far, has received no local, state or federal aid, but he gave the impression he wouldn't turn it down if it were offered.

Keuper said all of the major companies near here working on government missile contracts approve of the college as a way for their employees to progress in their fields. Many of these companies make donations to the school as well as pay the tuition of their employees, he said.

Keuper, a 42-year-old native of Newport, Ky., who holds a bachelor of science degree in physics from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a masters degree in physics

Finley Told 'No Deal' On Oakland Move

CLEVELAND (UP) - Kansas City owner Charles Finley never formally asked, but was told by the American League anyway that there is no chance of his moving the Athletics to Oakland "at this time."

Finley was made aware of the feelings of his fellow American Leaguers during an informal discussion regarding the Kansas City franchise at a meeting of league executives yesterday.

CANDLESTICK EYED

While no formal proposal was made, presumably because Finley realized it would be voted down, the Kansas City owner did approach Horace Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants 10 days ago with a request that the A's be permitted to play at Candlestick Park until a stadium could be built in Oakland

Women Row, Keep Active

By M. A. RAISER

OAKLAND (A)-Smiling women in nautical white and blue uniforms rowed a heavy whaleboat on Oakland's Lake Merritt with 76-year-old Emily Mennell as coxswain.

They were on the regular Wednesday morning outing of the Oakland Women's Rowing Club, organized in 1916.

"And please don't call us a grandmothers' rowing club,' said Mrs. Eleanor Smithoauer, club president, who is 60,

"We really row. One requisite of membership is that you have to row. Now and then a new member has a little troublue at the oars, but they soon

"I enjoy rowing very much or I wouldn't be a member." Ages of the club's 60 members range from 34 to nearly 90. There is no minimum age requirement.

Three surviving charter members are Mrs. Julie Viereck, past 75, and Mrs. Annie Ferris and Mrs. Erna Helmes, each each 34. "We are so proud to have them as members," Mrs. Mennell said.

"Julia Viereck is the only active charter member and she still rows. She has been showing up since 1916. She was the coxswain who trained me to take over the job 20 years ago."

THE SKIPPERS Mrs. Mennell and the other coxswain, Anna Menke, are of course called Skipper. Sometimes about 10 members take one whaleboat out on the lake. But often both boats are rowed for an hour, beginning at 10 a.m. From the stern the coxswains bark their orders and keep sharp lookout for the many sailboats dotting the popular lake. 'We have a regular oar drill." Mrs. Mennell said.

Busy Homemaker At Hamilton

By DOROTHY NEWELL

With three children at home, ranging in age from 17 months to 16 years, Mrs. Bryant Y. Anderson, wife of the Base commander at Hamilton Air Force Base, has a somewhat busier life than the average homemaker.

Colonel and Mrs. Anderson came to Hamilton last August, and since he became base commander in April the couple has been busy in their new role.

Working as a secretary in Washington, D. C., which was her home, Lurley met her husband when he was working and going to night school at Georgetown University. Entering the Air Force, Col. Anderson finished his last year of college on "boot straps" at Maryland University.

THEN, AS MOST service personnel do, the Andersons traveled to various bases, both in and out of the United States

Three years were spent in Hokkaido, Japan where Colonel Anderson was commanding officer of the 339th Fighter Interceptor Squadron. They also had a tour of duty at Howard Air Force Base in the Canal

"The quarters in the Canal Zone were nearly on a par with those at Hamilton," Mrs. Anderson said. And, because of the type of housing, the weather is not as great a problem as one would assume.

However, when they moved Into their new quarters in the Canal Zone, she was informed not to wash the screens which cover the windows, as the dust keeps the little gnats out of the house. The only other protection on the windows were wooden shutters which could be locked.

PRIOR TO COMING to Hamilton, the Andersons spent four years in Alexandria, Va., while Colonel Anderson was stationed at the Pentagon. The stay in Virginia was particularly attractive to Mrs. Anderson, as her parents live in Washington, and she had lived there since the age of five, when her father retired from the Navy.

The Andersons have been married 22 years and have four children. Bryant Jr., 20 years old, is an airman 2/c stationed in Texas; Vickie Lee, 16, Greg-

Mrs. Anderson is also chairman of the nurses aide for the Red Cross Chapter at Hamilton Air Force Base.

THE ANDERSONS have enjoyed meeting the civilians in Marin as they attend various parties and functions as representatives of Hamilton.

Looking into the future, Mrs. Anderson comments that she and her husband are hoping for a tour of duty in Europe before his retirement time.

It's Time To Think About Next Step At Civic Center

What should be the next project at Marin's Civic Center?

Should we go ahead with another unit so as to bring all the county offices into one area and clear out of the congested area of downtown San Rafael?

Should we start developing the proposed county fairgrounds at the Civic Center site so the Art And Garden Fair can begin to expand to its ultimate potential?

Should we think in terms of a Veterans Memorial Auditorium at the civic center site to serve cultural ends as well as fill other needs?

At the I-J we don't have any firm conviction as to which alternative should receive top priority at this time. Perhaps after we have heard more discussion of the various pros and cons, we will come to a conviction, but at present we find all the possibilities interesting to con-

Of late, our attention has been drawn to the Veterans Memorial Auditorium proposal because its advocates are actively promoting it.

The need for an adequate auditorium where music, drama, lectures, etc., can be presented to large groups under ideal conditions has long been recognized. And this newspaper has over the years advocated that the need be met-always to date without affirmative response.

There is a substantial amount of money accumulated in the county's veterans memorial fund. Spending it to help finance an auditorium has always seemed to us reasonable and proper.

San Jose uses its auditorium to attract conventions. This is what Mrs. Esther Dearth had in mind when, as president of the Marin Visitors Bureau, she recently issued a statement placing the Bureau on record as favoring such a facility.

When an auditorium is developed, we think it would be well to make it as versatile as possible, enabling as broad multiple-use as is possible without destroying accoustics. This doesn't seem really to be much of a limiting factor. Witness the Cow Palace. But we would hope that the Marin structure would be a bit more finished on the inside than that monstrous barn.

On the other hand, if (like the Cow Palace) it could accommodate athletic contests, ice shows, boat shows, home and hi-fi shows, horse shows, etc.-as well as cultural events—it would be less likely to become a white elephant.

Brooks Hall and the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco seem to be utilitarian without the limitations of the Opera House or the "barniness" of the Cow

And we ought to be able to produce a far more attractive structure at our Civic Center than San Francisco's Civic Auditorium.

'WATCH IT, PAT! THAT COW MAY BE A BULL'

Cartoons, Notes Draw Criticism

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

This is to help correct your seasonal decline in the letters to the editor category. Mr. Alan Fibish has already complained (July 3) regarding two of your paper's features that have also aroused my ire: cartoons and post-letter editorial comment, but perhaps Master every temptation to give vent to you will be interested in further words on these matters If enough readers agree with Mr. Fibish and myself, you may be induced to change wishes us to enjoy in every facet of life, be it at home, at work or even on the golf course.

Specifically I deplore your editorializing through syndicated cartoons on such very controversial subjects as race relations, morality, and library censorship, while fearlessly discussing the merits of the weather, the art and garden show and plastic packages, in the written editorials where you can be held accountable for your facts. The frequently unctuous and often puerile qualities of these cartoons surprise me as they must other readers, but how can we effectively rebut pictures with words? Let me add my plea also for a speedy end to the editorial notes appended to letters with which you disagree. The title of the column is "What Our Readers Say." Why not keep it just that? The added comments show you fear that some gullible readers will believe everything other readers have to say unless it is contested. Give us more credit than this.

May I suggest a return to the fearless and Independent-Journalism of the past? Save your little post-letter comments till they constitute a major editorial point and struggle with problems, while then march into print to tell us what you really think. We may disagree, but you'll earn new respect. At the same time you can give us some good cartoons about the weather and plastic bags, to replace those over-labeled, innuendo-filled pictures purchased from the syndicate. Do they really represent your views or only "what some people think?"

Public Officials Deserve Thanks

Independent-Journal:

Your editorial in Saturday's I-J lambasting the Fairfax City Council for allegedly meeting in secret, led me to reflect on how generous we are with our criticism of public officials and how niggardly we are with our expressions of appreciation for their

In Marin County, if you were to count them all, there are probably several hundred members of city councils, school boards, district commissions and other public bodies, mostly men, who are contributing great amounts of time without any compensation, to running these various segments of government. You are very generous, and rightly so, with your publicity and praise for the Red Cross Gray Ladies, Marin General Pink Ladies and other contingents of feminine volunteers as they take office, receive awards for hours of service, etc. They deserve every bit of that appreciation.

But what of the unpaid city councilman, who regularly gives up his evenings to his constituents stay home and watch television? All he gets is criticism when someone disagrees with his actions -which is about every time he votes! The publicity he gets frequently infers that there is skullduggery going on, or that there is a terrific battle brewing.

Our councilmen are not as pretty as the Pink Ladies, but I think they are entitled to a kind of appreciation once in a while. And you, Mr. Editor, as our representative in could set the rest of us a good example.

THOMAS LARKE, JR. Fairfax

(Ed. Note: Reader Larke must not remember our traditional "thank yous" which have appeared in our editorial column in times past when old terms expired and new ones started.)

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

California National Guard officials were invited to inspect proposed Marin County fairground sites with a view to state erection of a National Guard Armory.

Cadet corps training was discontinued by Tamalpais High School as result of budget restriction which also sharply cut back adult and parent education programs.

Approval was given by the Marin County Planning Commission for development of the Freitas Home Ranch and adjoining properties "into a city about the size of San Rafael" to be called "Terra Linda" and occupy 2,100 acres developed by Goheen-Travis Corp. to include 5,700 homes, five schools, four shopping centers, and numerous parks.

20 YEARS AGO

County Assessor George W. Hall declared his job is "a cold-blooded business with no room for charitable instincts." This came up in connection with complaint by a San Anselmo woman who said her property tax had doubled.

Fourteen Marin County department heads told the board of supervisors they favored a flat $15 per month raise for all county employees, though Auditor Leon A. de Lisle conceded that "we can't compete with the ship-

Additional automobile gasoline rations were promised to deer hunters who would turn over deer hides to the state and donate deer fat and tallow to butchers for the grease drive.

Inter-Service Cooperation Leads To Most Curious State Of Affairs

a member of any branch of the armed service would be ready to fight at the drop of a slur for his branch of the service. Fights between soldiers and sailors were comreonplace. When a few members of one branch of the service went into a bar where there were some members of another branch, the ensuing arguments frequently led to the exchange of fisticuffs.

However, the situation changed during World War II. The biggest worry the enemy had, they used to say, was when the Army and Navy stopped fighting each other and started fighting the enemy.

With the possibility of instant war always at hand since that conflict, the services are cooperating more and more closely. Nevertheless, a first of some kind was probably set a few weeks back when Capt. Bruce Cummings of the joint office of information at Hamilton Air Force Base covered the mid-air collision of two Navy trainers near Hamilton. He was called away from his home to cover the story.

It must have been the first time that an Army captain went to a Navy crash in an Air Force car wearing civilian clothes.

ADD TO THE LIST of chuckles in government, a remark dropped at the usually dignified Novato Unified School District board meeting. It occurred during a discussion of the new handbook for teachers. Such things as more college credits bringing larger pay, and the credits to be given for travel and other things that broaden a teach- scraps."

PRIOR TO WORLD War II, er's background were being discussed.

Amid these solemn proceedings, the following turned the solemnity into laughter: "I suppose that maternity leave would be classified under professional growth?"

AT THE FINAL budget study session of the Novato City Council last Tuesday night, city administrator J. Julien Baget was presenting a detailed estimate on the city's income for the next fiscal year. He had asked for estimates on various monies which the city gets from the

He reported to the council that the alcoholic license income would be smaller. The rebate on trailer licenses would be smaller. He also noted that the city police income for arrests was up over the previous year.

"I guess it shows that the people in Novato are drinking less, have fewer trailer coaches and are getting arrested more," he said.

THERE IS AN eight-yearold Novato girl who is mastering the art of cooking, coached by her mother and grandmother. Her mastery of the art of mixing ingredients for a cake, however, is greater than her mastery of vocab-

Not long ago she baked a cake, not from a package mix, but from the basic ingredients of flour, eggs, shortening, flavoring, etc. She was very proud of her achievement. When she was complimented by her mother and grandmother, she boastfully announced:

Another Communist Cuba May Be In Making In Latin America

Communist Cuba in the making in Latin America? This is the haunting question raised by events in Venezuela and British Guiana.

The Administration defends its quiescent attitude toward the Castro regime on the ground that one Communist satellite is no direct threat to the U.S. If we can keep the virus from spreading.

But what if containment fails to contain? What if we wake up some morning sooner than we think and find that one Communist satellite has become two?

THIS IS ONE OF the central concerns brought out by the recent Freedom House report on what to do about Cuba. The report itself summarized the findings and the warnings of a two-day conference attended by 27 Latin American specialists. At one point it said:

"Thoughtful observers are by now aware that Cuba is the Western Hemisphere base from which the Communist knife is aimed at the soft underbelly off the Hemisphere-Latin America. A long history of economic and political errors has filled Central and South America with internal discontent, thus making it vulnerable to conquest by external forces. How many more Cubas can we sustain?"

This is no academic question. It is a real and immediate question. There is no

The Country Parson

"Perhaps charity should begin at home-and then not stay there."

WASHINGTON-Is another assurance that containment is going to contain.

> In Venezuela the Castro-Communists, trained and supported by Havana, are mounting a campaign of violence and sabotage aimed to make it impossible for the liberal Betancourt government to be succeeded by another government democratically-elected. Their aim is either to seize power themselves or create such havoc that a military dictatorship will be the only alternative. The Communists well know that a right-wing dictatorship is just one step removed from left-wing dicta-

In British Guiana on South America's northern coast the outlook is even more ominous. Events are steadily slipping into a Castro pattern. Instead of leading his people along the road to peaceful independence which the British hoped he would be able to do-the Marxist - minded Premier Cheddi Jagan is creating economic chaos and explosive racial strife. The British want to give this colony its full independ ence. It is about as ready for independence as the Congo and if the restraining hand of the British is removed, the situation will be ready-made for a Communist regime.

THE CONCLUSION is becoming more compelling all the time that containment is no adequate answer to the threat to the whole eWstern Hemisphere posed by the Khrushchev-Castro dictatorship in Cuba. And the Alliance For Progress is no adequate answer because the Castro-Communist regime makes it far more difficult for the Alliance to do its work. The very survival of the Khrushchev-Castro dictatorship strengthens the Communists in other Latin American countries by creating the image of Communist invincibility.

This is why the Freedom House report contends that "To dislodge not only the Soviet troops but Communism itself from Cuba" is essential to the security of the Western Hemisphere.

WASHINGTON (UPI)-Congresss is just getting over its Fourth of July recess, which traditionally follows its Memorial Day recess, its Easter Recess, its Lincoln Day recess and its Jefferson-Jackson Day recess.

There was a time when the Fourth of July recess would have been the last recess before adjournment, but the way things are going this year it appears that Congress may have occasion to take a Labor Day recess, a Thanksgiving recess and a Christmas recess.

ever, to forecast a New Year's rier.

ALL OF THIS recessing has created the impression in some places-roughly in an area bounded by the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and the Canadian and Mexican borders-that Congress has been dawdling.

That is not precisely the case, however. On occasions, Congress has moved at blinding speed.

Just the other day, for instance, the House of Representatives passed a bill so fast

THE CYNIC'S CORNER By Interlandi

"He must be determined to get his civil rights bill passed—he brought back a shillelagh from dear ole Ireland!"

It is still too early, how- it almost broke the sound bar-

The bill authorizes each member of the House to take two additional trips back home each year at taxpayer

It was called up and approved without a word of debate or explanation.

Some observers in the chamber, including a few reporters, weren't even aware that the House had acted on the bill until they saw it listed in the congressional record the next day.

I am convinced that they were merely trying to counteract the widespread feeling that the congressional approach to legislation this session has been somewhat lackadaisical.

After all, the need for Congressmen to have two more free trips home is clearly evident. There isn't much point in staying in Washington during recesses.

NOR IS THIS THE only evidence that Congress has been doing more this year than short without warning. might be visible to the naked eye. A resume of the first six months of the session shows that our lawgivers have introduced a total of 10,629 bills and resolutions, which is nothing to sneeze at.

A sneeze might stir up the dust that most of the measures have been gathering in committee pigeonholes.

Besides that, they have answered 81 quorum calls and filled 11,358 pages of the Congressional Record at $90 a page. As this shows, Congress has been humming. I think it is unkind to say they ought to stop humming and get to

TRY AND STOP ME

In a steady stream of traffic on the Saw Mill River Parkway one Sunday recently, a small sedan stopped dead Screeching brakes behind testified to the alertness of a dozen drivers who narrowly averted a "chain accident."

The driver of the car behind the offender jumped out and demanded an explanation. The offender was obviously taken by surprise. "We didn't mean to cause anybody trouble," he explained anxiously. "My wife and I were just trying out our safety belts!" After a particularly gay party at a particularly gay convention, two members in good standing had retired to their hotel room, where one member slipped on the bathroom floor and sustained several cuts on his face. His friend patched him up as best he could with bandages. The injured one then went over to inspect himself in the bathroom mirror. A look of awe came over his battered visage. "Jiminy, Tom," he murmured respectfully, "I didn't know you could afford a Picasso!"

Spare-Part Surgery Becoming Ever More Popular, More Sophisticated

Spare-part surgery is becoming the order of the day. If research and surgical know-how continue to develop at the present pace, it may be possible in the future to replace worn-out organs with healthy substitutes. This is said on the assumption there will be enough deaths and accidents to make a fresh supply of organs continuously available.

THE FRUIT OF ADVERTISING

Back when our century was young, oranges were a rare and expensive treat to be enjoyed only at Christmas and other special occasions.

Then advertising started telling the nation about the health benefits of vitamin-rich oranges in daily diets.

Today, millions of families start the day with oranges or orange juice—and are better off for it. Today, growing, processing and shipping oranges and juice give employment to thousands of people. Today, oranges and orange juice are no longer rare or expensive-this is the fruit of advertising.

That's how advertising works.

It tells millions about products that can make a person healthier, happier, wiser, better looking, more comfortable, safer. As demand grows, products can be improved in quality and lowered in price through mass production. As new industries grow, new jobs are created. That's how our free economy operates to give Americans a standard of living unmatched by any other country in the world.

Electronic computers can cope with an amazing range of mathematical problems. They can calculate the stresses on an aircraft's wings while it is still on the drawing board, solve economic problems such as the most econome way of distributing goods from a number of plants, calculate wages, produce life expectancy tables for insurance firms, analyze surveys and predict election re-

Why then, should computers be used to write music, poems, letters and play games in their spare time?

The late Prof. Alan M. Turing once said the principal motive was the sheer fun of the thing. But it could be justified if need be. For one thing, he said, the experts learn more about what the machines can do and how they can be made to do it while playing.

NEGRO GIVES INVOCATION FOR HOUSE

WASHINGTON (A) - For the first time in modern history, a Negro chaplain delivered the invocation yesterday at the opening of the House session.

He is the Rev. Harold R. Perry, S.V.D., rector of St. Augustine mission, Bay St. Louis, Miss. The mission is a Roman Catholic institution.

The House frequently has guest chaplains, but the few members on hand today said it was the first time in their memory that a Negro delivered the invocation.

Without specifically mentioning racial matters or the struggle over civil rights legislation, the chaplain prayed that Americans "may live together as brothers in charity and peace.'

Pesticides Effects On Eagles Studied

LAUREL, Md. (A)-Scientists at the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center near here are trying to solve a riddle that may threaten the existence of America's national bird, the bald eagle.

There are only about 4,000 bald eagles in the United States, excluding Alaska, and there has been a severe drop recently in the number of young eagles being born.

"Breeding success in some areas is almost nil," said Dr. William Stickel, one of those directing the research at the center.

This is especially true along the Atlantic Coast, where only about one in ten attempts by bald eagles the raise their fed diets containing 10 parts young succeeded last year.

But Dr. John L. Buckely, director of the wildlife research center, said he was not yet convinced pesticides are the cause of the eagles' failure to reproduce. He added, however, he also wasn't convinced that pesticides were not the cause.

Researchers at Patuxent are working along two lines. The center has requested that all bald eagles found dead be sent to Patuxent for examination. Dr. James B. DeWitt, who has charge of this phase of the research, said 37 of the first 38 eagles tested shower resi-Blair House, used as the also were found in four eagle to be land development. Smith

There the birds were fed diets laced with carefully controlled amounts of pesticides.

This research indicated that the lethal dose is about 160 parts per million of pesticide.
